MR. CHURCHILL'S WAR REVIEW

BRITAIN AND U.S. WAR PLAN FOR VICTORY

VITAL DECISIONS AT SECRET MEETINGS

THE Allies have the means of victory in their hands, provided the utmost in human power is done in Britain and the United States, Mr. Churchill told the House of Commons yesterday.

Disclosing that the United States chiefs had attended secret conferences in Britain, he said:—

> "Decisions of importance were taken affecting the whole future general conduct of our operations, not only in Europe, but throughout the world."

During his talks with M. Stalin he said they entered into everything with the utmost candour and thoroughness. The Russians did not think that Britain or America had done enough to take the weight off them, "but I am sure we made their leaders feel confidence in our loyal and sincere resolve to come to their aid as quickly as possible, without regard to sacrifices and losses involved, so long as the contribution is towards victory."

> "I personally regard the Dieppe assault," the Premier said—"to which I gave my sanction—as an indispensable preliminary to full-scale operations."

The Allies' warfare on the U-boats, he added, had been more successful than at any former period in the war. During July, August and September the line of new building of merchant ships of the United Nations had definitely crossed and maintained itself on the graphs above the line of sinkings.

Of Egypt he said: "I feel able to assure the House that they may be confident in our ability to maintain the successful defence of Egypt for several months ahead."

"MISREAD" TELEGRAM

Mr. Churchill, in the House of Commons yesterday, revealed, in answer to a question, that his announcement that 230 tanks were lost in Libya on June 13 was based on a misreading of a Cairo telegram. He added: "About 200 tanks were lost over a period of about a week. . . The bulk of the losses probably took place on that and previous days."

BRITISH ATTACKS ON CONVOYS

FIGHTS IN CHANNEL

BRITISH light coastal forces fought and won two Channel actions against German supply ships and their escorts early yesterday, according to an Admiralty communiqué issued last night. One attack was pressed home only a mile from the German shore batteries at Cherbourg. Many hits, including one with a torpedo, were scored on each convoy. All the British boats returned.

The Admiralty communiqué states:

"In the early hours of this morning patrols of our light coastal craft, under the command of Lieutenant W. A. Eardley-Wilmot, R.N., and Lieutenant A. R. N. Nye, R.N.V.R., intercepted an enemy supply ship escorted by trawlers and R-boats off the French coast. The enemy vessels were bound for Cherbourg, and were intercepted when within a mile of the harbour. Our light forces immediately attacked, and a brisk action followed.

"Enemy shore batteries opened fire in support of the convoy, but our craft pressed their attack home at close range, and the enemy ships were seen to sustain many hits. At least one hit with a torpedo is estimated on the supply ship. Only one of our motor gunboats suffered slight damage, and there were no casualties.

"Another encounter took place in the Straits of Dover, near the French coast, about the same time, when patrols of our light coastal forces, under the command of Lieutenant M. Arnold-Forster, R.N.V.R., and Lieutenant C. H. W. Andrew, R.N.V.R., intercepted another escorted enemy supply ship. The patrols engaged the escort vessels, and in the ensuing action many hits were scored on two of these. The guns of one escort vessel were silenced.

"One of our boats sustained two slight casualties and minor superficial damage. There were no other casualties or damage to our light forces in either of these actions, from which all our craft returned safely."

Mr. Joseph M. Schenck, film producer, was released yesterday, after serving four months of his year's sentence, for perjury in connection with charges of income tax evasion.

50 MILES FROM PORT MORESBY

JAPANESE ADVANCE IN NEW GUINEA

SYDNEY, Tuesday.—Attacking fiercely through a narrow jungle defile in the Owen Stanley range, the Japanese have pushed back Allied forces in the Kokoda area of New Guinea.

After a battle which has been raging for some days, they are now only 50 miles from Port Moresby, the Allied base on the south coast. Fighting has shifted from Kokoda towards the village of Myola, seven miles further inland, and 5,000 to 6,000 feet up. Both sides are throwing large numbers of aircraft into action.

The Japanese are now in contact with the main Allied defences covering the only passage through the mountains, the heavily protected "Gap."—(Reuter.)

The Sydney Morning Herald's War Correspondent in New Guinea said to-day that the Allies had completed their withdrawal south of Kokoda, and established a new line in the jungle-covered mountains. The Japanese advanced half-way across New Guinea towards Port Moresby, he said, but by far the most difficult part of the journey is before them. United States fighter planes are co-operating with the Australian land forces.—(The Associated Press.)

MID EAST BOMBINGS

Royal Air Force medium bombers alone have carried out 289 sorties on Axis forces in the battle zone since the attack upon the Allied advanced position on the evening of August 31, stated the Royal Air Force Middle East News Service early yesterday, quoted by the Press Association.

In six nights well over 1,000,000 lbs. of bombs were dropped on the Afrika Korps and Italian advanced elements. Since the El Alamein line was formed on June 23 Allied heavy and medium bombers have operated on a scale far in excess of any previous effort. Then, until August 13, a total of over 4,000 sorties was achieved, and about five and a half thousand tons of bombs were dropped. Wellingtons bore the brunt of this effort, but Halifaxes, Liberators and various types of American aircraft also played their part.

Tobruk has succeeded Benghazi as the most-bombed port in Africa, 2,555 sorties having been made on it. In day and night raids over 3,000 tons of bombs were dropped upon its supply ships, docks and harbour installations. Just as the Benghazi flight became known as "The 'Bus Route," so the Tobruk flight has achieved notoriety as "The Milk Run." Personnel of the United States Army Air Force have co-operated with the Royal Air Force unstintingly.

VITAL WAR THEATRE

PRETORIA, Tuesday — General Smuts said to-day that the most vital theatre of the war was the Mediterranean. The war could not be won without clearing it. "Events have shown that unless North Africa is cleared up with the greatest decision the resources of the Powers' whole war effort will be in jeopardy." Mr. Churchill and he, in their talks in Egypt, found the Middle East situation "uncomfortable and disturbing." Decisions were taken which would mean big changes, and already they were beginning to see the first fruits of those changes, and the immediate danger was lessening.—(Reuter.)

GOLDEN JUBILEE

Yesterday was the golden jubilee of the Very Rev. Father Angelus, O.F.M.Cap., and, during the morning, at the Church of St. Mary of the Angels, Church street, Dublin, he renewed his profession into the hands of the Very Rev. Father Colman, O.F.M.Cap., Provincial.

Father Angelus, who was received into the Order at Rochestown, Co. Cork, in 1892, is a native of Graiguenamanagh, Co. Kilkenny, and was ordained 40 years ago. Except for nine years in Cork, he spent all his years at Church street. For 36 years he has never missed a pilgrimage to Croagh Patrick.

The Apostolic Blessing of the Pope has been received by him to mark the jubilee, and congratulatory messages were received from the Most Rev. Dr. Paschal Robinson, Nuncio Apostolic; the Most Rev. Dr. P. S. Mulligan, Archbishop of Simla and Delhi, and the Most Rev. Dr. Brendan Casey, O.F.M.Cap., Cork, Definitor General of the Order.

SAVAGE CLASH AT DIEPPE

Mr. Churchill opened his review with a reference to the arrival of the convoy in Malta. "To ensure the life and resistance of that heroic island fortress for a great many months to come, severe losses were suffered both by the convoy and the escorting fleet. But this price, although heavy, was not excessive for the results attained; for Malta is not only as bright as a gem as shines in the King's crown, but its effective actions against the enemy's communications with Libya and Egypt are essential to the whole strategic position in the Middle East. The most remarkable feature of this fighting was, undoubtedly, the defeat by gunfire and by the aircraft of the carriers of the enemy's shore-based aircraft. Fifty-six Axis aircraft were shot down for certain, and fifteen others were probably destroyed."

Of the Dieppe attack, he said: "The military credit for this most gallant affair goes to the Canadian troops, who formed five-sixths of the assaulting force, and to the Royal Navy, which carried them all there, and carried most of them back. The raid must be considered as a reconnaissance in force. It was a hard, savage dash, such as are likely to become increasingly numerous as the war deepens. We had to get the information necessary before launching operations on a much larger scale."

ALLIES' SECRET

The enemy, he said, was aware of the steady and rapid influx into this island of United States divisions and other troops. What he does not know is how, when, where, with what forces and in what fashion he will be smitten, and on this point it is desirable that he should be left to his own rumination, unassisted by British or American advice or comment.

"Since we were last together the tendencies of the war have continued to move in our favour. Of the Russian front, I will only at this moment say it is the 8th of September. In other quarters the growing predominance of the Allies in air power is continuous. From June onwards to the first week in September, just closed, we have discharged nearly double the bomb load upon Germany as was discharged in the corresponding period last year, and with much greater precision. A far larger proportion fell in built-up areas, or hit the actual targets. The U.S. daylight bombing is a new and increasingly important factor, and there is no doubt that both in the accuracy of high-level and in the mutually defensive power new possibilities of air warfare are being opened by our American comrades and their Flying Fortresses.

"The losses at sea are still very heavy, but I am glad to say that the months of July, August and September, as far as it has run, are a definite improvement on those which preceded them. This is due largely to the continued development and completion of the convoy system off the American coast, and this improvement has been effected in spite of heavy losses in warlike operations, such as the Russian and the Malta convoys.

IMPORTANT MISSION

"We must regard this struggle at sea as the foundation of all the efforts of the United Nations. If we lost that all else would be denied us. The ruthless, uplimited German U-boat warfare had brought us a new ally in Brazil—a hopeful and encouraging event." Mr. Churchill disclosed that in July President Roosevelt sent a most important mission to Britain. No announcement of it was made at the time, but the mission comprised General Marshall, head of the United States Army; Admiral King, head of the Navy, and Mr. Hopkins, the President's personal representative. They met in numerous conferences not only with the British chiefs of the staff, but the members of the War Cabinet and of the Defence Committee. During a period of ten days—very important—the whole field of the war was explored and every problem of importance in it was scrutinised and weighed.

THE DESERT ARMY

Turning to his visit to the Middle East and Moscow, Mr. Churchill said:—"I believe that the results achieved, although now secret, will, as they become apparent, justify any trouble or any expense incurred. Travelling always in a Liberator bomber, it was possible to reach Cairo in an uncommonly short time. I had some reason to believe that the condition of the Desert Army and of the troops in Egypt was not entirely satisfactory. Before I left I had reason to believe that. The Eighth Army, or the Army of the Western Desert, or the Desert Army, as I like to call it, had lost over eighty thousand men. It had been driven back about four hundred miles since May, with immense losses in munitions, supplies and transport.

"General Rommel's surprisingly rapid advance was only rendered possible because he used our captured stores and vehicles. In the stress of the retreat and the fighting at El Alamein, where General Auchinleck succeeded in stabilising the front, the structure of the Army had become much deranged. Nevertheless, there was a universal conviction in officers and men of every rank that they could beat the Germans man to man and face to face. But this was coupled with a sense of being baffled, and of not understanding why so many misfortunes had fallen upon the Army. (Hear, hear.)

The spirit of the troops was admirable, but it was clear to me that drastic changes were required in the High Command, and that the Army

KILLING OF THE DEER

CAN IT BE STOPPED?

THE Mansion House "Save the Deer" Committee are to meet to-day to consider what steps they will take if they have not by that time received an answer from Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly to their request that he should receive a deputation to discuss the matter.

Legal opinion is being sought as to whether there are any grounds on which proceedings may be taken to prevent further slaughter. Some persons interested have asked whether it is not forbidden by law to slaughter animals in sight of one another. It is pointed out that there is a law to that effect, but it applies only to cattle, sheep and pigs—animals ordinarily killed for human consumption—but does not apply to deer.

MODE OF SHOOTING

Messrs. W. and L. Nolan, 138 Terenure road, the two men engaged in shooting the deer last Thursday, state:—Before the shooting commenced we asked the representatives of the National Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and their veterinary inspector if they would agree to having the deer shot in the main corral, as we considered that it would be inflicting unnecessary suffering to try to force the herd one by one into the smaller pen. They agreed that this arrangement appeared the best, and told us they were quite satisfied. We, on our part, did everything possible to have the slaughter carried out as humanely as possible.

With regard to the photographer who was refused permission to take pictures, it was really our fault, as, first, we did not know he was from the Press, and, second, he took up his position directly behind the rifle which was firing in the direction of a wall, and, fearing that a bullet might ricochet off the wall, we asked a responsible person to have him removed for his own safety. We, on our part, regret any interference with him in his duty.

"Truth" (Dublin) writes:—If it is essential for these creatures of God to be destroyed, the slightest cruelty should not be tolerated. God's answer to the calf-slaying brutalities of some years ago, in sending the foot-and-mouth scourge to this country, should be remembered now, and heed taken. Such treatment of animals indicates the lack of Christian graces and virtues in the persons concerned.

MR. NILS JAENSEN

BACK IN DUBLIN TO-DAY

After an absence in his own country of nearly four months, Mr. Nils Jaensen, Swedish Consul-General, is due to arrive in Dublin to-day, making the last stage of his journey by train from Belfast. He left Ireland on May 11, and his trip was partly holiday and partly business. He spent about a month in Stockholm, where, in addition to making the usual routine reports, he was engaged also in business negotiations.

In Stockholm he spent a great deal of time with his son, who is a law student in the University there. He visited also the village of Linkoeping, where he was born, and where his grandfather was a farmer. Some of his time he spent in the country-side at Dalkarnia, about 200 miles north of Stockholm, where he has a charming country house.

Mr. Jaensen was accompanied on his trip by his wife, who also is expected back to-day. She had hoped on her holiday to visit her native city of Helsinki, in which city her husband had started his Consular service during the last war.

BOY SCOUT AWARDS

POWERSCOURT RESCUE

Three Boy Scout awards for bravery in life-saving have been made to Dublin Scouts in connection with the rescue of a man stranded half-way up a cliff at the Powerscourt Waterfall on the August Bank Holiday. The first award is that of the Bronze Cross, often known as the Scout V.C., made to Mr. Percy C. Scott, honorary secretary of the Eire Boy Scouts' Association, who climbed down a rope a distance of about 200 feet from the top of the cataract to the ledge to which the stranded holiday maker had climbed from the bottom of the fall.

The other two awards were of gilt crosses, made to Mr. N. Taylor, aged 23, Home Farm road, Rover Scout leader, and Mr. P. Custis, aged 22, Main street, Rathfarnham, who was assistant camp warden at the Powerscourt Scout camp. They also climbed down the rope to relay messages to and from Mr. Scott, as he was trying to bring up the man on the ledge. These gilt crosses rank second to the Bronze Cross, which is the premier Scout award.

DEATH OF A MARINE ARTIST

The death took place suddenly at Dalkey, yesterday, of Mr. Julius Olsson, R.A., one of the best-known British painters of marine subjects. Though Mr. Olsson was in his 78th year, and had been in failing health, his death came as a shock; he had been painting on Monday, and had spent Saturday evening at the Royal St. George Yacht Club, Dun Laoghaire.

He was born in London, in 1864, of a family of Scandinavian origin which had been settled for a considerable time in England. He spent most of his youth at St. Ives, in Cornwall, where he first fell in love with the sea, and first began to try to reproduce its charm on canvas. Even during the last war, when he served in the R.N.V.R., he was able to do his national service not too far from his beloved Cornwall, and at the same time to utilise his knowledge of marine painting. He had the important responsibility of directing the camouflage painting of many important warships, carried out at such naval ports as Plymouth and Portsmouth.

Up to the time of the present war he had been living in London, but often visiting St. Ives, of whose golf club he was president, and where he indulged in his favourite sport of yachting.

His close connection with Ireland began when he married Miss Edith Ellison, daughter of Charles Ellison, the well-known trainer and horse-breeder, of Loughglynn, Castlerea, County Roscommon, one of whose racehorses, Tandragee, was among the most successful horses that ever left Ireland for the English Turf. From the time of his marriage he used to come to Ireland almost every year, usually staying at the house of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Clement Peters, from whose house in Dalkey he could continue his tireless study of the sea in one of its loveliest aspects. He painted several successful pictures of the coast around Dalkey, and also made many painting trips to the West of Ireland, where he painted many striking scenes along the coast of Donegal and Kerry.

Academy, London, as well as at the Royal Hibernian Academy and at exhibitions of the Royal Institute of Oil Painters, of which he was president.

Early in the present war his English home suffered badly in an air raid, and he came with his wife to live with his sister-in-law at Dalkey, at whose house he died yesterday. He is deeply regretted, not only in England, where he spent most of his life, but in Ireland, where, since he came to live, he had made many warm friends.

The funeral, which takes place to Dean's Grange to-morrow, is private.

STALINGRAD'S FIRM DEFENCE

RUSSIANS ATTACKING OUTSIDE CITY

AT Stalingrad the Red Army is holding the Germans at bay at the south-western danger-point; more than holding their own to the north, where a Soviet counter-stroke is apparently causing the attackers some unexpected trouble, and yielding no ground before the fierce frontal assault between the Don and the Volga.

Following a German High Command claim to have captured a number of heights in the Stalingrad fortification area, Berlin claimed last night a deeper penetration into the city's western defence belt, and north-west of the town German troops are said to have made a 7-mile breach in the defence girdle, which Russian reinforcements failed to close.

In the Novorossisk area conditions are, says Moscow, "most complicated," but yesterday's German communiqué claims that 6,758 prisoners were taken in the fight for the port, and that mopping-up operations are continuing in the area.—(Reuter.)

GERMANS CLAIM ADVANCE

MOSCOW, Tuesday. — Reuter's Correspondent here says that the Red Army has improved its position on the Stalingrad front in the last 24 hours. It has stemmed the pincer drive from north-west and south-west, and is now throwing in fresh reserves to hold the German frontal assault from the west. Soviet artillery is laying down a wall of fire through which few tanks can pass, and, stripped to the waists, Soviet gunners are fighting to the last shell and the last man. South-west of the city, where only a few days ago the situation was desperately critical, the Russians have not only held the German attacks, but are pushing them back in some sectors.

"On the Black Sea the Germans continue to advance. At Novorossisk fighting is taking place in what Moscow describes as 'the most complicated conditions.' The Germans have finally driven a wedge into the Soviet defences, and the battle for the gates of the Caucasus, along the Terek River, is also growing in intensity."

GERMAN CLAIMS

LONDON, Tuesday.—German tank and mobile formations yesterday captured a fortified hamlet and penetrated deeper in the Stalingrad fortifications west of the town, a German High Command report claims to-night. North-west of the town German troops have pierced the fortifications in the girdle around the town, making a seven-mile breach, which the Russian reinforcements failed to close, says the report.

"The Soviet diversion attacks with strong tank forces in the north, between the Don and the Volga, have been repelled partly in counter-attacks, with close-quarter fighting lasting several hours."

A German War Correspondent, broadcasting from the Stalingrad front to-night, said:—"Enemy resistance has considerably stiffened. Our Command had to change its plans when it was realised that still another line of fortifications barred the way for a frontal attack. "This meant shifting thousands of motor vehicles to new positions, involving a prodigious expenditure of petrol, but the supply organisation worked smoothly and brought up the necessary supplies."—(Reuter.)

SOVIET COMMUNIQUE

MOSCOW, Tuesday.—To-night's Soviet communiqué states:—"During September 8 our troops fought the enemy west and south-west of Stalingrad, and also in the area of Novorossisk and Mozdok.

The supplement states that west of Stalingrad, Soviet troops fought fierce defensive battles. A German tank attack in one sector of this front was at first checked by Soviet artillery fire, but after a second fierce engagement Soviet troops withdrew to new defensive lines. South-west of Stalingrad a German attempt to outflank Soviet units was frustrated by tanks, and in another sector attacks are being continually repelled by Soviet forces. "The enemy drove a wedge into our positions in one place."

NOVOROSSISK

The defenders of Novorossisk are putting up a stubborn resistance to fierce attacks, says a front-line dispatch quoted by Moscow radio early to-day. "For the third day fierce battles are continuing for a point which has already changed hands several times," the dispatch says. "At first the Germans, at enormous cost, captured it. Soviet marines drove them out of this point and annihilated a considerable number. With reserves they again attacked, and the fighting grows hourly in intensity."

BOMBING OF FRENCH TOWNS

U.S. REJECTS PROTEST

WASHINGTON, Tuesday.—The United States Government has rejected the French protest against bombing of towns in occupied France by American 'planes. The State Department announced that France had complained that in recent bombings of Le Havre and Rouen a number of people had been killed and others wounded. M. Laval, in his Note, added that, "as it was reported that some American flyers had participated in the raids, he desired to enter a protest to the American Government." The State Department replied that the squadrons in question were bombing military plants in the employ of Germany, and that the Americans, of course, had no desire to see the French suffer any more than could be avoided, "since they have already suffered to an incalculable extent under the German occupation."—(Reuter.)

M. Laval was told, it is added, that military plants located in France and useful to the Germans will be "bombed at every opportunity."—(Reuter.)

YOUTH TRAINING SCHEME

FIRST CENTRE OPENED

The first centre of the youth training scheme, drafted by the Department of Education to combat the effects of unemployment on Dublin youths, was opened by the Minister for Education at 14 Upper Mount street, Dublin, last night.

The Most Rev. Dr. McQuaid, Archbishop of Dublin; Mr. de Valera, Mr. W. T. Cosgrave, T.D., and the Lord Mayor of Dublin were among those present. The Rev. D. Vaughan, D.D., chairman of the Committee, presided.

The Minister for Education said that the organisation would have its own training centres, of which that was the headquarters and first. Good premises had been acquired for a second centre, and it was intended to open two other centres later on. In those centres there would be formal teaching in the ordinary school subjects where necessary, but emphasis would be laid on manual and craft work, and recreational activities, including physical training. The aim was to provide such useful training as would be appropriate to the boys in the formative period of their lives.

He asked employers to take an interest in the scheme, and trusted that they would give every consideration to boys who were recommended to them by the organisation.

CENTRE BLESSED

The Most Rev. Dr. McQuaid (Archbishop of Dublin), who blessed the centre, said that that evening they assisted at the beginning of an enterprise that must have far-reaching effects upon this city. He thanked the Government and the City Committee for Vocational Education for the understanding and courage they had shown in that enterprise, and said that it was easy to forget the months of preparatory thought and work that had made that youth training possible.

"But may I, as a constant witness," he continued, "bear grateful testimony to-night to the devotion of the Minister for Education, the Vocational Committee and their officers? And on the first public occasion that has offered I should like to express my full appreciation of the immediate and generous collaboration I have been given, not only in providing for the religious and moral training of boys in this centre, but more particularly in establishing a new system of religious instruction by priest-teachers in all the technical and vocational schools of this diocese. The testimony given during the year by the principals concerning the advantages derived by their boys and girls from this essential training is already a reward to the civil authorities and a benefit to the city."

SHOTS AT CONSTABLE'S HOUSE

Early yesterday morning five shots were fired into the home of James Hutchinson, a Special Constable, of Kilbiney road, on the outskirts of Rostrevor, Co. Down.

Three of the shots were fired through the window of an empty bedroom, and two through the hall-door.

No one was injured. Two men have been detained.

"CEASE FIRE" SOUNDED

By An "Irish Times" Reporter.

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH, Tuesday.

THE second big battle of this mimic war ended last night just as the action was becoming most exciting. I was with a battery of Red field artillery when the "Cease fire" sounded. War correspondents had followed the battery and a large number of mechanised troops who were making a flanking movement to harass the main advance of the Blues, who crossed the river the previous night. The Reds had thrown out a screen of armoured cars and artillery, which pushed across the Blues' front, wheeled left and was about to contact the Blues in flank and partly in the rear when the end came. As I came through the Red Area on to the dividing line I met here and there a field gun or an armoured car of the Blues which had been put out of action in a Red ambush.

Accompanying the artillery and motorised troops who were attacking the Blue flank was one of the most interesting part of the job of covering this war. Our car was parked in the centre of a village away from the advancing Blues when armoured cars flying the Red pennant of the defenders began to pour through the street from a side road. We immediately got into the stream behind a couple of lorries of troops, and some distance farther on we were led down a by-road, from which the dust rose like thick white smoke, making driving almost impossible. The dust cloud must have given the movement away to the Blues, though the road was bordered by high bushes, which screened the cars and lorries from view. As our car caught up the column again the guns were being run into a field on the top of a long slope, commanding a wide panoramic view of the country, in which large numbers of Blue troops were advancing. re the "Cease fire" came just as the gunners had their ammunition ready at the breach of each gun.

After the third phase of the manœuvres there ill be a parade through Cork, the biggest the city has ever seen, and the troops are expected to march with their kit just as they came in off the field, and the city people will get some hint from their appearance that these manœuvres are not boys' play, but a serious and strenuous job.

PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS

FATE OF ULTIMATUM

WASHINGTON, Tuesday. — The Senate Finance Committee voted 13-6 to adopt the five per cent. victory tax on the income of all individuals in excess of £156 annually. The Committee unanimously rejected the Treasury's proposal for a spending tax to raise £1,625,000,000 additional revenue.

President Roosevelt's ultimatum to Congress that he would use his own powers to stabilise the cost of living if Congress did not give him the required authority within three weeks is unparalleled in American political history, says Reuter. It is uncertain whether it will mean a fight between the President and Congress, or whether the latter will move in step with him. There is already considerable criticism of his message to Congress.

The Washington Post says that if Congress "fails to meet the test, its influence on the course of U.S. policy in the next few years will sink to a dangerously low level. In Congress should abdicate its responsibility to act, the fight against inflation could be won by an executive decree, but our constitutional system would suffer a shock."—(Reuter.)

ENGLISH COAST RAID

Bombs were dropped yesterday evening at a place on the South-West coast of England, killing a small number of people, said a British Air Ministry communiqué.

Raiders over an East Anglian town last night dropped dozens of flares and some high-explosive bombs, which appeared to fall in country districts several miles away. The raiders were met by A.A. fire.

CHURCHILL WAR REVIEW

must have a new start under new leaders. I was fortified in these conclusions by the advice of the Chief of the Imperial General Staff, and also by the massive judgment of Field-Marshal Smuts."

In the proposals which he submitted to the War Cabinet, General Alexander, fresh from his brilliant uphill campaign in Burma—a most testing ordeal for any man—succeeded General Auchinleck; General Gott, who was greatly trusted by the troops, was to command the Eighth Army. The Cabinet was in the act of endorsing these telegraphed recommendations when General Gott was killed by the enemy.

"I am satisfied that the combination of General Alexander as Commander-in-Chief, and General Montgomery under him commanding the Eighth Army, and with General McCreery, an officer deeply versed in the handling of tanks, as Chief of the General Staff, is a team well adapted to our needs, and the finest at our disposal at the present time. Of General Auchinleck, I will only say that he is an officer of the greatest distinction and of a character of singular elevation. He has at present, at his own request, gone on leave, and it is my hope that his services may be available later in the war." So large had the reinforcements to the Army of the Desert been that what was, to a large extent, a new Army had been created while fighting had been actually in progress.

A NEW ARMY

In order that the Desert Army should have the fullest freedom of manœuvre a new Army was brought into being along the Nile and the Delta. Rommel, however, was not disposed to run the risk of going around and by-passing the Army, and he strove instead to repeat the tactics he had used at Gazala. He was met not only by British armour, but by British artillery used on a scale hitherto unprecedented. Thus, the attack of the Axis Army, which had been reinforced up to 12 Divisions, and also by very powerful artillery — some superiority, he thought, in the medium guns and powerful armoured forces—was first brought to an abrupt standstill and then pressed slowly and steadily back with heavy losses in tanks and vehicles of all kinds.

"So we are entitled to consider this last week's fighting as distinctly—as not unsatisfactory, especially when we compare it with what our positions were two and a half months ago. The Desert Army will welcome every opportunity of fighting that is offered to it, and further developments may be awaited with good heart." Mr. Churchill added that the Tenth Army—now detached from the Middle East Command—is being rapidly strengthened, and, with the substantial air forces which it will require, may eventually give support to the Russian left flank, and will, in any case, defend the soil of Persia.

MOSCOW MEETINGS

Mr. Churchill said that, during his visit to Moscow, the Chief of the Imperial Staff and General Wavell had discussion on technical matters with the two leading military men of Russia—Marshals Voroshilov and Sheposh Nikov. I have reported these to the War Cabinet, and Mr. Harriman has reported them to the President, but they must remain secret. There is one thing I can say, however—the Russians did not think that we or America had done enough to take the weight off them, and this is not at all surprising in view of the terrific onslaughts which they have withstood with marvellous tenacity.

Although there are over forty-five divisions in the west subjugating the occupied countries, the German Army numbers are made up by Finns, Rumanians and Italians, who have been dragged by Hitler into this frightful slaughter. It is proof of the increased strength that Stalin has given to Russia that the resistance of Russia alone is able to stand against the equivalent of the whole of the Teutonic armies and to resist them so long with a great measure of success

RUGGED WAR CHIEF

The object of my visit, said Mr. Churchill, was to establish relations of easy confidence in the same way as I had established them with President Roosevelt, and I think, in spite of the extent of the Tower of Babel which persists as a sort of barrier, we succeeded to a considerable extent. It is very fortunate for Russia to have this great, rugged war chief at their head in her agony. Stalin is a man of massive and strong personality, suitable to the stormy times in which he has lived. He is a man of inexhaustible courage and willpower, direct, and even blunt in speech, which, as one brought up in the House of Commons, do not fail to appreciate, especially when I have something to say on my own. Above all, Stalin is a man with that saving sense of humour which is of high importance to all men and to all nations, and particularly to great men and to great leaders. Stalin also left upon me the impression of a deep, cool wisdom, and a complete absence of illusion of any kind. I believe I made him feel we are good and faithful comrades in this war, but that deeds and not words will prove that.

One thing is the inexorable, inflexible resolve of Russia to fight Hitlerism to the end until it is finally beaten down. Stalin said to me that the Russian people are naturally a peaceful people, but the atrocious cruelties inflicted upon them aroused them to such fury and indignation that their natures were transformed. As I flew back to Cairo over the vast mountain ranges and deserts I bore with me the conviction that in the British Empire, in the United States and the Soviet Union Hitler has forged an alliance and partnership which is strong enough to beat him to the ground, and steadfast enough to carry on until his wickedness has been punished and at least some of the wrongs he had caused have been repaired.

TOWARDS VICTORY

Mentioning the measureless improvement in the British position in the last two years, he said that, entering the fourth year, they were not alone, but among the leaders of the majestic company of leaders and nations, including the greatest in the world, moving forward together until absolute victory was won and established on unshakable foundations.

"I wish most particularly," he said, "to identify the British Government and the House with the solemn words lately used by the President of the United States—that those guilty of the Nazi crimes will have to stand before tribunals in every land where their atrocities have been committed, in order that an indelible warning may be given to future ages, and that successive generations of men may say: 'So perish all who do the like again.'"

DEBATE COLLAPSES

When Mr. Churchill sat down the House quickly emptied. Only three members rose to speak—Mr. Greenwood (Lab., Wakefield), Mr. Cary (Con., Eccles), and Dr. Haden Guest (Lab., Islington, North)—before the debate was adjourned.

Although this is virtually the end of the war debate, says the Press Association Lobby Correspondent, it will be continued at the next sitting, when Mr. Churchill will make a statement on India. This will not be debated. There will be a financial review by Sir Kingsley Wood, dealing with the £1,000,000,000 Vote of Credit to pay for the war over the next twelve weeks.

AIR-RAID EFFECTS

During his review of the war in the House of Lords yesterday Viscount Cranborne described the British air offensive as a "powerful second front," alluded to the "fearful experience" which German industrial cities are undergoing, and stated that a big raid on a key factory had "just the same effect on the war as a battle."

The Dieppe operation, he added, was aimed at giving direct aid to the Russians by causing a great air battle, and the fact that they fought the German 'planes on equal terms in their own air had given the Germans a shock.

GIFT OF A WARSHIP

Mr. Churchill announced in the House of Commons yesterday, that, in view of the loss of the Australian battleship, Canberra, the British Government freely offered the transfer of H.M.S. Shropshire to Australia, and the offer was warmly received.

Yesterday, in Canberra, Mr. Curtin, Commonwealth Premier, welcoming the gift, said that it symbolised "the unbreakable unity between Australia and the Motherland."

FIRE DRILL DEATH

Referring to a report of the inquest on September 1st on Nurse Clarke, who died following an accident at fire drill at Portrane Mental Hospital, Captain Gerard P. Quin, Dublin representative of Messrs. Merryweather, Ltd., states that he did not say that the Hospital Committee "paid the Dublin Fire Dépôt to check the apparatus regularly and to overhaul it once a year, but that it had not been overhauled for the past three years." He did say that Messrs. Merryweather had never been asked to inspect or overhaul the apparatus, and that they (Messrs. Merryweather) could take no responsibility, as the chute had been patched, a method of repair which manufacturers never agree to.

Edvina Second Best?

FROM OUR CURRAGH CORRESPONDENT

EDVINA'S additional success at Phœnix Park has established the claim reasonably claimed for her, that she is at least runner-up for two-year-old championship honours. The Phœnix gave a considerable amount of weight to Mrs. Swan Song when he beat her three parts of a length in the Phœnix Plate, while Edvina, with an advantage of 5lb. over the penalised Mrs. Swan Song, vanquished her easily by two lengths in the Newbridge Plate at the last Curragh meeting. By Figaro—Louise, Edvina is a splendidly bred, and will be a considerable addition later on to the mares at the Brownstown Stud. Bought by the Conyngham Lodge trainer, M. C. Collins, at the Newmarket Sales for 100 gns., Edvina won first of all in the name and colours of Mr. Gerald McElligott, and subsequently she was sold to the Conyngham Lodge establishment.

Eastern Echo and Dancing Time, bought at the sale of the late Lord Glanely's horses by M. C. Collins for Mr. McGrath, have been entered, respectively, in the Irish Cambridgeshire and Cesarewitch, but their main objective is the stud, for which they will be eminently suited.

The stable's Irish St. Leger candidate, Windsor Slipper, had a three-parts speed gallop with important stable companions last Saturday. This unbeaten classic winner is expected to wind up the season by an easy success in our Leger, after which he will be retired to the Brownstown Stud, and I understand he is already full for his first season. No horse has shown greater development, and he will strip a picture on Leger afternoon.

Mr. W. R. Ellis's good colt, Foam Crest, is more than useful over all distances, and Cecil Brabazon's charge has a big chance of winning another King's Plate on Irish St. Leger day.

The Melitta Lodge representative, On Time, did the stable a good turn at the Park meeting. Bred by Major McCalmont, and trained for him by R. Fetherstonhaugh, he was bought by Mr. D. Malone, and in the future should repay for many disappointments. By Horus, from Ojala, he is likely to prove a substantial bargain. He has a handy weight in the hurdle at Baldoyle on Saturday.

Red Thorn's turn may come about in the Howth Plate. Friction, also ought to take some beating in the Moorefort Plate. The field for this should be highly interesting. Stop It, Edvina; Mrs. Swan Song, Fourth Choice, Choral, Friction, Gallant Girl and Pontiffex are among the acceptors, and the problem presented is not so easy.

DUBLIN'S FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

BY PAT'O.

DUBLIN teams are unlucky to have such formidable opponents in the respective finals as Cork in hurling and Galway in football. One leg of the double is gone, and Cork won by a two goals margin, which I forecast here last week.

Dublin hurlers missed a great chance when their forwards were ranged before an open goal at three-quarter way. The odds looked 10 to 1 on a score that would put Dublin in front, and "anything might have happened." A mistimed shot sailed yards wide and Cork seized their luck in both hands to change the scene and drive home scores with speed and precision.

Dublin put up a brave struggle. They were beaten by youth and hurling skill. Cork's style, overhead and on the sod, was manifest in the last quarter. Donegan (Dublin) kept a great goal to the end, and Cork wisely sought minor scores between the goals, and Beckett's "football" goal clinched the argument.

I reckon that Dublin footballers have a far better chance of defeating Galway than their hurlers had of defeating Cork. Dublin have 14 championships to their credit against Galway's 3. Though 19 years have passed since Dublin last won a football title tradition dies hard, and Dublin were never far below championship standard. Twenty players are in training, and the side that beat Meath and Carlow are knitting into a formidable fifteen.

Kelly is a capable goalkeeper; Murphy, Kennedy and Crone are firm and powerful backs; Henry, O'Reilly and Quinn on the half-line are quite the equals of their Galway opponents; whilst the Kerry pair—Falvey and Fitzgerald—are powerful midfield kickers who go high for the ball. Dublin forwards are not so formidable. G. Fitzgerald is the best of the bunch, but Banks, Joy, Fletcher and O'Connor can do well when the ball breaks in their favour. To win teams always must go to the ball instead of awaiting its arrival. If they hope to succeed. As ball players they are quite Galway's equals.

On their display against Kerry, against whom they led in the second half, Galway are entitled to their position as favourites. The Connaught champions are wide-shouldered and muscular. They are resolute, too, and will finish strong after the hardest hour. Half-a-stone heavier than Dublin, they will set a fast pace. But their forwards have scored rarely against Kerry backs, and they are erratic shots under pressure. For this reason I give this well-trained Dublin side a strong chance of taking their 15th title on September 20th.

GOOD TENNIS WIN FOR MISS MATHEWS

The outstanding singles match at Elm Park yesterday was that in which Miss M. Mathews beat Mrs. E. G. Lister in the second round of the women's event. The two sets were very closely fought, but Miss Mathews was always the attacker and the base-line, and, even though her game was by no means consistent, she hit a good outright winners to qualify for the third round, without standing on her opponent was not much pace that numerous occasions, and if her backhand defensive it was quite sound. Mrs. Lister, who lost a 5-4 lead in the first set, fought hard in the second, recovering from 0-2 and 3-5, but she never shaped like winning.

LONDON CHEERFUL

The week in Stock Markets has started with firmness in most sections, and the rising tendency has been helped by the Prime Minister's address in the Commons, especially his reference to reduced shipping losses and increased shipbuilding in the U.S.A. Buying still appears to be selective, and in many instances the improvement in prices is due to a market shortage of stocks. British Funds have shown little further movement as yet, partly because of the expected competition from the 3 per cent. Defence Bonds, but some of the dated issues have hardened from ½ to ¾. In the Foreign market there has been a good demand for Brazilian Bonds, further recovery in Brazilian Dollar Bonds, further recovery in Brazilian Bonds, Egyptian Loans have been helped by the war news from the Middle East.

GAINS ON HOME RAILS

Of outstanding interest elsewhere has been the sharp advance in junior stocks of Home Railways, mainly because of attention drawn to the attractive yields obtainable during the period of Government control. Great Western and L.M.S. have each risen 1, and Southern Preferred and Deferred are respectively 1¼ and ¼ higher. Some of the largest movements, however, have been in Scottish stocks, other than Caledonian, which have risen 2 to 3 points, while Glasgow & South Western Preferred has risen 4. Caledonian Deferred 3, and Great North of Scotland Preferred 2½. The Mediterranean Railways have been favourably influenced by the war news, and Rhodesian Railways have been helped by the support. Buying of industrial equities continues to be selective with gains in various Breweries, and Guinness and Steel and Engineering shares, while the Shipping group has been well supported, yesterday's improvements including 2/6 in Clan Line, 1/- in P. and O. Defd. and 1/3 in Union Castle.

LONDON AND THAMES HAVEN

The accounts of the London and Thames Haven Oil Wharves for the year 1941 now issued show that, having regard to the changing conditions, the results for 1940 were considered satisfactory, the wharf profit being £164,618, as compared with £133,909 for 1939. Net profit for 1940 after providing for depreciation, war damage contributions, taxation, etc., was £65,593. For 1941, however, the wharf profit dropped to £100,207. Net profit for 1941, after meeting taxation, depreciation, etc., was only £6,929, and the payment of the Pref. dividend up to March 31st, 1941, resulted in a reduction in the balance carried forward of £118,883 to £106,883. Payment of the Pref. dividend was suspended, but the trading results for the seven months to July of this year show some improvement upon those of last year, and since the publication of the accounts the directors have decided to pay on 1st October next six months' arrears of the 5 p.c. Pref. dividend. This will bring payments up to the end of September last. The 4/- Ord. shares are quoted at 3/9, and the 4 p.c. Cum. Redeemable Pref. £1 shares at 11/-.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Tuesday.—The Stock Exchange opened steady, but quiet. The morning was slightly lower during the selected issues. The President's anti-inflation move did not have a noticeably disturbing effect. At the same time Mr. Roosevelt's and Mr. Churchill's speeches proved helpful. There were lively dealings in low-priced issues. The market closed firm. The turnover of 390,000 shares comprised 819 stocks, of which 264 advanced, 164 declined and 174 remained unchanged.

"As You Were"

Mr. Winston Churchill's complete domination of the British House of Commons was demonstrated, not for the first time, yesterday, when, after he had made his long-awaited statement on the war situation, only three members showed any desire to speak, and the debate collapsed. It will be resumed when the House meets again to hear the Prime Minister's statement on India. For most practical purposes, Mr. Churchill told Parliament nothing. Those who had been anticipating a dose of soothing syrup must have been disappointed. All that Mr. Churchill said, in effect, was that the Allies had the means of ultimate victory in their hands, provided that the utmost in human power should be done in Great Britain and the United States. The tendencies of the war, he declared, continued to move in the Allies' favour. During the last three months the load of bombs dropped on Germany by the Royal Air Force had been almost double that for the corresponding period of last year. At sea, which, he admitted, was the most important of all theatres of war from the British point of view, sinkings of merchant ships still were serious; but during the July-September period the line of new buildings had crossed, and was maintaining itself in the graph above the line of U-boat and other sinkings. Beyond that bare statement Mr. Churchill did not go. There were two other points of major interest in his survey. One related to Russia, the other to Egypt. The British Premier always has been noted for his frankness; and, so far as it went, yesterday's speech was no exception to the rule. He spoke at some length about his recent visit to Russia, paying a tribute to the personality of the Soviets' "rugged war chief," whose "deep, cool wisdom" and freedom from illusions of any kind manifestly had made an impression on him; but he did not attempt to hide the fact that Monsieur Stalin and his colleagues in Moscow were disappointed at the extent of British and American aid. They did not think, said Mr. Churchill, that Great Britain or the United States had done enough to take the weight off them. This view, he added, was not altogether surprising; and he left it at that. Concerning Egypt, the British Premier did not vouchsafe much information; but he did say that he was confident, after his experiences with the Eighth Army in the desert, of its ability to maintain a successful defence of the Nile Valley "for several months ahead." He also admitted that the Eighth Army had lost 80,000 men, and had been driven back four hundred miles since last May with "immense losses in munitions, supplies and transport." He had reached the conclusion that drastic changes were needed in the High Command. These changes had been made. Generals Alexander and Montgomery now were in charge of operations, and the position at the moment was "distinctly not unsatisfactory."

On the subject of a second front in Europe, Mr. Churchill naturally was reticent. He also did not say much about the attack on Dieppe, which he described as a reconnaissance in force and "an indispensable preliminary to full-scale operations." The operation had been carried out by a force five-sixths of which consisted of Canadians, and had been a "hard, savage clash" of a type which would tend to become increasingly numerous as the war would deepen. The Prime Minister also revealed the fact that an important mission from the United States had been in Great Britain recently. Vital decisions had been taken regarding Anglo-American strategy; but, here again, Mr. Churchill was unusually discreet. There can be little doubt that the general public, in the United States as well as in Great Britain, will be disappointed. During the last few months there has been a popular clamour for a more vigorous policy on the part of the Allied Powers. The public imagination has been fired by the tremendous fight that has been put up by the Russians, particularly since the German assault on Stalingrad; and even the traditionally conservative Times has been openly critical of Allied inaction. The public, in this case, is in the position of the hurler on the ditch. It is easy to call out for the invasion of the European continent and to argue that millions of highly-trained and well-equipped men have been waiting in England for nearly two years; but Mr. Churchill and his military advisers have the responsibility, and a false step by them easily might precipitate disaster on the Allied cause. It seems to be reasonably clear now that the raid on Dieppe not only was a "reconnaissance in force," calculated to test the strength of the German defences at one of the most important points along the French coast, but also served as an object lesson to those who seem to think that an invasion of the continent would be a comparatively simple operation. At any rate, while Mr. Churchill makes no secret of the Russians' impatience, or of his own sympathy with their concern, he very naturally has refused to give the world the slightest inkling of the Allies' intentions. He spoke of "the inexorable and inflexible resolve" of the Russians, but Monsieur Stalin and Herr Hitler will search his speech equally in vain for any hint regarding the steps that Great Britain and the United States propose to take to relieve the pressure on the Soviet armies. Mr. Churchill manifestly has satisfied the House of Commons. Whether or not he has satisfied public opinion in England and throughout the British Empire remains to be seen. The war has been in progress now for more than three years, during which the "Axis" Powers have achieved striking successes. They also have sustained severe losses, while the war potential of Great Britain and the United States has been increasing steadily. One of these days the final clash must come; but in the meantime the peoples of the allied countries must possess their souls in patience, while Russia continues to bear the heat and burden of the day.

An Important Report

An important report on the subject of post-war educational aims was published last week by the British Conservative Party. The report is the work of the Educational Sub-Committee of the Party's Central Committee on Post-War Problems. It has not yet been considered by the Central Committee of the party, and the President of the Board of Education is in no way committed to the views which it contains, so that it must not yet be regarded as the Conservative Party's policy on education. Nevertheless, the quality of the material which it contains and the deep thought which obviously has gone into its compilation make it worthy of the study of educationalists in this country, even if they cannot agree with all the conclusions of its authors. The report, naturally, reflects the times in which it was written. It takes the view that a primary duty of national education should be to develop a strong sense of national obligation in the individual citizen, to encourage in him an ardent understanding of the State's needs, and to render him capable of serving those needs. The citizen should learn how to work for the good of all, as well as for his own good, and be trained in the use of arms in his country's defence. Probably those views would find general acceptance in this country at the present time. So far as England is concerned, they bear a close resemblance to principles which had been advocated many times in the past, even before the war of 1914-1918, but which, up to 1939, never had been popularly accepted. Irish educationalists may find the report's references to religion especially interesting. The decline of religion in England is discussed, and the danger arising from the void in men's minds through the weakening of belief is gravely pointed. The committee reached the conclusion that religion in Great Britain needs to be conceived, politically and administratively, in general terms as a basic and vital element in the national life, to be deliberately encouraged and fostered. Many other aspects of the report, such as questions of secular /moral training, and the special nurture of children showing signs of unusual ability, are too important to be summarised in a short article. The document needs to be read in its entirety if the full value of its contents is to be appreciated.

Mr. Michael Doyle, ex-T.D., The Cottage, Tagoat, Co. Wexford, whose death occurred at the County Hospital, Wexford, was leader of the old Farmers' Party in the Dail. He was for many years chairman of Wexford County Council, and a member of Wexford Mental Hospital Committee and other local bodies. In pre-Treaty days he was an active member of Sinn Fein.

METHODIST CHURCH

The Methodist Church Dublin District Synod met in the Centenary Church yesterday. The Chairman of the District (the Rev. H. M. Watson, M.A.) presided. Sympathy was expressed with a number of members who had suffered bereavement. By a unanimous vote the Rev. R. Lee Cole, M.A., B.D., was appointed District representative to the Stationing Committee of the Conference of 1943. The report of the Home Mission Sub-Committee was submitted by the Rev. M. J. Lewis. Grants were approved for repairs to the ministers' residences at Dolphin's Barn and Abbey Street Circuits, and arrangements were made for the following members of the Home Mission deputation—the Revs. S. J. Johnston, D. H. Ludlow and W. E. Cullen, B.A., to visit various circuits during November. The Rev. James M. Alley and Major A. W. Johnson, M.B.E., were appointed representatives to the Nomination Committee for next Conference.

The Rev. John England and Mr. A. M. Fullerton, O.B.E., addressed the Synod on the need for promoting fellowship and for the pastoral oversight of congregations.

The following appointments were made by the Synod:—District Educational Secretary, the Rev. R. Lee Cole, M.A., B.D.; District Secretary for Ministerial Training Fund, Mr. E. W. Booth, B.A.I.; Secretary of Chapel Fund Sub-Committee, the Rev. E. Whittaker; Secretary of the District for Supernumerary Ministers' Fund, Mr. H. W. Stevens; District Secretaries for Work Among the Young, the Rev. W. S. Deale and Mr. F. Collings; District Secretary for Local Preachers, Mr. J. A. Smith.

The Rev. W. E. Cullen, B.A., submitted the report of the District Committee for Overseas Missions, and Mrs. E. H. Booth spoke on Methodist Witness in Eire.

UMBRELLA SUPPLIES

Forgetful Dubliners had better buy their new umbrellas early this year. Makers are relying on their present stocks to last out for the duration of the war; for no steel, silk or cotton is being imported. A prominent Dublin trader told the Irish Times yesterday that there was no apparent shortage in their departments, but they expected their supplies to be greatly lessened when the winter months arrive.

WEXFORD THEATRE GUILD

The formation in Wexford of a repertory company, the Wexford Theatre Guild, has aroused interest and encouragement among theatrical circles throughout the country.

Mr. John Welsh, founder and director, has gathered together some thirty local players, and the intention is to perform a play of outstanding merit, approximately, every six weeks. Guest-players and producers are to come from Dublin.

In the first production, in mid-September, of George Shiels' "The Rugged Path," Cathleen Murphy, Fred Johnson and Austin Meldon, of the Abbey Theatre, will appear. The Guild's winter season, which opens in January, will bring Hamlyn Benson and Ronald Ibbs (by permission of Lord Longford) to Wexford, where they will both produce and act in plays of a type invariably associated with the Gate Theatre. An excellent musical trio will perform in the newly-renovated theatre.

In a letter to Mr. Welsh, Mr. George Shiels writes: "... Your venture certainly has my blessing... I am very happy to have my name associated with what may be the birth of a Little Theatre in Wexford. You and your colleagues are to be congratulated; the work you are setting your hands to may make social history in Eire."

BETTER FARMING PLANS

How to so modernise Irish agriculture, how to place it on a basis which would enable Irish farmers to obtain a good standard of living after the war—this will be the task of the new Post-War Agriculture Planning Committee set up by the Minister for Agriculture, which will have its first meeting to-day.

It is anticipated that the initial meeting will be a formal affair, and that the members of the Committee, with Professor T. A. Smiddy, M.A., as chairman, will be addressed by the Minister, Dr. Ryan. It will be a private meeting.

The view that the Committee probably will consider the subject on the basis of the pre-war economic situation, and plan on the assumption of a continuance of, if not an increase in, foreign trade after the war, was expressed in agricultural circles yesterday. It would be, it is thought, largely a task of improving agricultural methods rather than [illegible]

CRUISKEEN LAWN

By Myles Na gCopaleen

THE Myles na gCopaleen Central Research Bureau is experimenting with the manufacture of intoxicating ice cream. The object of this step is to help to prevent the collapse of the national moral owing to the growing shortage of spirits and beer. (How can you talk of a thing "growing" if you mean it is shrinking?). Several potent freezerfuls of a pink treacly mess have been produced but the preparation is still far from perfect. While it induces a pale wan languorous inebriation followed by unheard-of depression, it tastes like sludge from a tractor's sump, it cannot be digested even with the lavish assistance of enteric chemicals, and the fumes from it have a deadly effect on the optic nerve. This is not to say that the Bureau is giving up hope. Experiments continue night and day. Myles na gCopaleen, the da, has already decorated several employees for gallantry and distinguished conduct in the tasting room and has not scrupled to get them the best room in the hospital. In a moving address to them he said that however long the road, however sombre and bitter the setbacks they might encounter, they were determined to finish the task they had undertaken, they were resolved to rest neither night nor day until their objective was achieved and alcoholic ice cream had become a commonplace of Irish life.

By "commonplace" he had in mind, no doubt, the daily court hearings of the future.

The sergeant stated that the defendant staggered badly after getting out of the car and smelt strongly of drink.

Defendant: I have not touched a drink for ten years.

District Justice: Did you have any of this new ice cream?

Defendant: Well, I had, your honour.

District Justice: How much had you?

Defendant: I had a twopenny wafer in Dregheda, your honour.

District Justice: Is that all?

Defendant: I felt a cold coming on me and had two cornets at Swords.

District Justice said he was determined to put down the growing practice of people driving around in motorcars and pulling up at roadside sweet-shops to consume ice cream. If such persons feel they need ice cream, they must leave their cars at home.

The Sergeant said that the defendant had a small freezer in the back of the car which bore the traces of fresh ice cream; the cushions also had traces of wafer-crumbs.

District Justice: No doubt he said "Crumbs!" when he ran into the other car. (Laughter.)

Defendant stated that he had bad teeth and did not like ice cream but took it as a tonic and also to prevent himself getting colds. He realised now that he had been foolish and was prepared to take the pledge and drink only whiskey in future.

District Justice inquired what was defendant's capacity.

Defendant said he had often taken five or six cornets without suffering any ill effects or intoxication.

District Justice: Uneasy feels the head that's had six cornets. (Laughter.)

Defendant said he would lose his job and British Army pension if convicted.

District Justice said that defendant should have thought of that before indulging in the deadly potions of the freezer. The next time ice cream addicts were brough before him the sentence would be jail. In the present case he would give the defendant a stern warning and fine him forty shillings.
